FROM THEATRE TO FACTORY.

5th Date of Members of a Stranded Opera Company.

PRESIDENT, Sept. 15.—The London Opera Company, composed of Polish Jews, was stranded in this city last night. The troupe consisted of six men and two women. It was organized two weeks ago in New York by Morris Baker and Mike Bernstein, the players' salaries averaging $8 per week. They opened in Fall River with "The Greenhorn" on Saturday night, and have been here ever since. The first performances were given at the Talmud Theatre when it was discovered that the managers had fled. They were corralled by the troupe, who have been compelled to wait in the New York train. A popular comedian told them to give one of the young women transportation to New York, so that they could get passage on the trains to be sent to Fall River, where they will be obtained employment in the mills.

Thomas Wentworth Pierce's Will in Court, Boston, Sept. 15.—There came up in the Supreme Court to-day a bill in equity against Charles Babibide and the other executors of the will of Thomas Wentworth Pierce, brought for the purpose of having the court decide as to whether the assets of the estate of the testator are entitled to priority over the debts of the assets of the estates being insufficient to pay all legacies in full. The estate is valued at $1,000,000, and the amount of the legacies is about $600,000. If the court decides that the children's legacies are entitled to priority the rest of the legatees will get nothing. The bill was filed by the executors, and the bill is estimated to cost about $1,250,000. The case will be heard for the full bench.
